Tuning the social side of radio
Steve Davis
There's more to radio than what goes out over the airwaves, especially in the realm of community radio.. In this presentation, former radio professional turned marketing, Steve Davis, will explore the importance of reaching out beyond our radio programs to find and engage with communities of listeners through digital content and social media. He'll draw upon his work with 5mbs over the past year, to share examples of how announcers can make use of their preparatory work to help promote their station and build their profiles.
